

I am an avid listener of Satellite radio, and it is especially useful when traveling across several states. The instant traffic/weather channels are great when approaching a large city - I can quickly change to the channel for that city, get an update, and go right back to what I was listening to before. Large cities have many radio stations, and without knowing where to start, trying to find a traffic update would be much more difficult. Please allow the Satellite radio system to continue as it is now, and allow it to continue to offer even more services.

Thanks.
